Personal Profile

Christopher hails from York, England, where his aspirations for acting came to him during his primary school nativity play, he started acting classes aged eight and joined Stagecoach and continued at high school where he auditioned, was accepted and received training from the National Youth Music Theatre. He continued to study drama at high school and theatre studies at college in 2002. He then took several career path changes whilst also appearing in some productions at York University in 2006 and student film before moving to Prague in 2014. Since then he has acted and starred in several theatre productions in Prague in English, student film and notably the TV show Knightfall.

Chris also plays piano, sings, has practical knowledge of martial arts (Aikido, Karate, Kick boxing, Krav Maga and Kyudo) horse riding, stage dance, fencing, military training (command and infantry training, weapon handling) and spends the rest of his time outside of teaching English researching, reading and indulging in the creative.
